Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Rishi was one of the richest men in town but he could be mistaken for a beggar. People were more likely to rob a rich man than a poor man he thought so he chose to live like a pauper. However, the town people were aware of his wealth. They knew him as the miser and they sniggered whenever he passed by in his worn-out clothes. 5

One day, he exchanged all his wealth for a huge lump of gold. He chose to bury it at a deserted area near an unused well. He was certain that it was the safest place to keep his treasure and he checked on it daily. Before long, the town was whispering about Rishi's frequent mysterious visits to the unused well in the dead of the night. One night, a curious soul discovered the secret of the hidden treasure. Upon digging, he discovered the lump of gold and stole it. 10

On his next visit to the site, Rishi was astounded when he realised the disaster that had struck him. He began howling with grief and soon a crowd assembled. They watched him grieve the way people would mourn the loss of a dear one until finally a neighbour came forward. 15

"You want your gold? Pick up a heavy stone and place it in the hole. Imagine that the gold is still lying there and it will do you quite the same service. When the gold was there, you had it not, as you did not make the slightest use of it," said the neighbour to Rishi. 20

Rishi was silenced. The neighbour's reasoning was valid after all.

There once lived a proud man, Qi Long, in a state in China. He was the driver of the prime minister of the state. One day, the prime minister decided to visit the town where Qi Long lived with his wife. Some neighbours saw Qi Long drive the prime minister and were excited. One of the neighbours ran to his home and said to his wife, "Quick! See who is driving the prime minister?"

5

The wife ran out to see her husband drive the chariot of the prime minister. She saw him drive past her with his head held high up in the air. When Qi Long returned home that evening, he was excited to see his wife's reaction. However, his wife gave him the cold shoulder.

He asked her, "Why are you unhappy?"

She said, "I'm embarrassed. Look at the prime minister. He sat with great modesty in the chariot. You're but his driver and yet you're so arrogant."

Qi Long reflected on his attitude. He understood that the better a person gets, the more humble he should be. From that day onwards, he promised to change his behaviour. The prime minister noticed the change in him.

15

He asked Qi Long, "You seemed a changed man. What happened?"

Qi Long replied, "My wife told me that I should be modest and I agree with her."

The prime minister admired his change in attitude. He took him to the king and said, "Your Honour, my driver is a man of virtue. He has the courage to admit his mistake and has become a better man."

20

"Good! For his courage, he should be given an official post," the king said.

Qi Long was made an officer. He discharged his duties with great modesty.
